COULD WE BUT KNOW.

Could we but know the ills and woes of life,

Dispensed o'er earth, the bounds of human strife;

The lacks of love, the dreags of wanton pain,

Departing joys that comfort not again,

Could we but know.

Could we but know of earth and all in all,

Know Life, know Death, and answer when they call;

Know height and depth and breadth of surging care,

Know sorrow's pangs and joys bewitching glare,

Could we but know.

Could we but know the future as the past,

Know heaven's decree while time and earth shall last;

Know purest love, a love still unbetrayed,

Know fondest hope, a hope still undimmed,

Could we but know.

Could we but know man's tempter when we see

Unnumbered snares concealed for you and me;

Our pathway strewn with empty, worthless joys,

Appeals to temporal wants, excites, destroys,

Could we but know.

Ah, yes, we know, the Savior died for all,

On Calvary's tree, to ransom from the fall;

Shared human griefs, and earthly sorrows bore,

A light from earth to heaven's eternal shore,

Ah, yes, we know.

Mrs. C. P. Wiggins, Lexington, Ky., says: I gave my fowls Bourbon Poultry Cure when they were sick and it certainly worked wonders. Sold and guaranteed by Day Bros. Co.

To Improve Our Waterways.

A dispatch to the Courier-Journal, December 15, says:

Jno. W. Langley, Congressman-elect from the Tenth district, has arrived in Lexington. He has just returned from the Big Sandy section where he went to see what was needed in the way of improvements on the Big Sandy river. He will go to Beattyville to consult with prominent citizens on the location of the next lock and dam on the Kentucky river.

His investigations are being made with a view to presenting the wishes of Eastern Kentucky to the River and Harbor Committee of Congress, before which he will be given a hearing at Washington next week. Mr. Langley is of the opinion that lock No. 14 on the Kentucky river will be located just below the mouth Sturgeon creek so that it will afford slack water navigation in that creek which will enable the product of the rich coal mines of that section to reach the market. Congress will be asked to appropriate $500,000 to build this lock. An appropriation of $500,000 will also be asked for additional locks and dams on the Tug and Levisa branches of the Big Sandy.

Mr. Langley says that these appropriations will be all that Eastern Kentucky will ask for in the next River and Harbor Bill, and he is confident that they will be granted.

R. S. Darnaby, Clintonville, Ky., says: My horse were exposed to cholera after they had been cured with Bourbon Hog Cholera Remedy, but it did not affect them in any way. Sold and guaranteed by Day Bros. Co.

Stop with Hart Bros., at Reed Hotel, when in Lexington.

CORRESPONDENCE.

CROCKETTS' ILL.

Miss Nellie Turner closed her school with a Christmas tree. About 150 people were in attendance and all went away well pleased with the entertainment. Miss Nellie's teaching has given entire satisfaction to the patrons of the district. Before closing the exercises Miss Turner addressed the patrons and pupils in her usual happy manner as follows:

"Before taking my departure I wish to express my hearty thanks and deep appreciation for the many kindnesses shown me during the six months I have had the pleasure of being with you. I regret that I have not had the pleasure of visiting more homes than I have, or calling on at the parents; nevertheless, I feel just as grateful for the cordial in Nations received."

I think all the children who have had an opportunity of attending school have made such improvement as will gratify their parents who have so often been absent from home in order for them to attend. I sincerely hope the parents may realize more fully the benefits of an education; for if anything on earth can make a great and moral nation, it is to give the little ones a thorough education."

The little bright-eyed boys and girls who have been so kind to me and done so many favors, I must now unwillingly give back to their parents, hoping they may be a brighter jewel and a greater blessing in your homes than they had been before. I hope Santa Claus will visit each one and that you may have a Merry Xmas and a most prosperous and happy New Year. The sunny smiles of the little ones, ever beaming with joy, that so often greeted me with a glad 'Good morning,' must today grieve me with a sad 'Good-bye.' Yet, we know earth's dearest ties must be broken;

Time's sweetest roses decay; words of farewell must be spoken. Evening will follow the day. I cannot say farewell; it would make me too sad; but each of you imagine one of your hands clasped tightly in both of mine while I sweetly, but sadly say, 'Good-bye.' A PATRON.

CLEMENS.

Mrs. Jane Miller, aged 67 years, of Leatherwood, died on the 8th inst. of throat trouble. She was the widow of George Miller, who died last winter. She leaves several children to mourn her loss.

...Miss Louisa Barnett has been very sick the past week with stomach trouble. ...Wayne Davis and Billy Russell passed here recently with a load of goods for T. B. Sturdivent's new store at McQuinn.

...Rev. M. D. Richie and wife attended Sunday school at Smith Branch Sunday. ...Mrs. Prada Miller visited Mrs. Eljane Clemens recently. Mrs. Clemens has been sick for several months and the doctor says there is no hope for recovery. ...H. C. Clark's daughter has been very sick the past week. Buck Miller visited last week by fall.

...The new Kentucky State Fair will be held at its old place.

Jacob Terry, of Terrell, is visiting his sister, Mrs. F. Terry. The first week of the O. C. circuit court, under the new Kentucky district officers, closed last Saturday, his Honor T. G. Lewis presiding. The new Commonwealth's Attorney, Ira Fields, not being able to attend by reason of sickness, his honor appointed Lon D. Lewis, of Hyden, attorney protem. The court's instructions to the jury were to the point, and plainly indicated to the law-breakers that they must cease violating the law or get into trouble and that very soon. The grand jury, under G. B. Wilson as foreman, has completed a hard week's work and reported about 60 true bills, and not being through with their business Saturday the court ordered them to convene again Wednesday to finish their business. On Wednesday the case of the commonwealth against Henry Stamper, charged with false swearing, was tried and the jury gave him one year in the penitentiary. The case against Wm. Freeman and wife, Margaret, and son, Harrison, an indictment was returned against all of them, charging them with the willful murder of John Gilbert, Jr., and their trial set for Tuesday of this week. The case against Wm. Osborn, charged with the murder of W. D. Wilson, deputy sheriff of this county, the trial of which resulted in a hung jury at the last term of court, went to the trial again on last Thursday. The jury took the case Saturday evening and had not reported Monday morning. Osborn was ably defended by C. B. Little, of Manchester; H. C. Eversole and S. P. Hoag, of this place, and John Dixon, of Hyden. The prosecution consisted of the Commonwealth and county attorneys, aided by E. E. Hogg. The Commonwealth made out a strong case against the defendant. The case against Henry Crank, charged with the murder of Charley Isaacs, was called for trial Wednesday. The following attorneys are in attendance: C. B. and D. Y. Little, of Manchester; J. K. Roberts, of Beattyville; John Dixon and L. D. Lewis, of Hyden, and F. G. Fields, of Whitesburg. The Judge, notwithstanding his being an entire stranger to most of our people, is giving entire satisfaction.

...The News' correspondent at Clemens writes of having some curios in the shape of old coins. I have in my possession two old newspapers, one the Ulster County Gazette, published at Kingston, N. Y., by Samuel Freck & Son, on January 4, 1800; the other the Congressional Intelligencer, published at Washington, D. C., on Wednesday, July 8, 1846, by Gales & Seaton, during the first session of the 29th Congress of U. S. The Ulster County Gazette is heavily striped around each column in mourning on account of the death of Gen. George Washington, who died December 14, 1799, just a few days before its publication. Has anyone as old a publication?

FRIDAY, DEC. 21.

LEE COUNTY,
PRIMROSE.

Ledrick McGuire and Alta Martin were married at the residence of the bride's father a few days ago, Rev. J. H. Hieronymus officiating. After the wedding the party proceeded to the groom's home where a nice reception was given. Rev. R. T. Moores gave an entertainment at his school the other day and took the collection recommended by the State Superintendent for the World's Fair building. The local option question is being agitated strongly in Lee county now and will be until December 28, at which time we hope that every voter, young or old, will be found at the polls regardless of the weather and cast their vote to help the helpless. This is an opportunity we have long wished for and one that has been many times prayed for. It is now left for us to say shall my son be taught to drain the cup of sorrow? Shall our young men be tempted longer with the fumes of the wine cup that is wafted from the door-ways of the drinking places out on the streets of our county seat where they must go for marriage licenses, examinations, institutes, etc.? Shall we longer tolerate by our vote or silence (which is both consent and cowardice) a traffic in our county that will make us tremble with fear when our loved ones go to town lest they return home in a state of drunkenness or get killed on the way? The bugle call has sounded. Let us answer the roll and let us chase the monster from county to county and from State to State until it is driven from our nation, which will be done in the near future. God is hearing our prayers. HOOKER.

An Opportunity.

We do not know of a better market than we have right here at home for turkeys, geese, ducks, chickens and eggs. The demand is always greater than the supply. This is naturally a poultry country—so well adapted to the wants of fowls and yet there are so few raised. There should be enough poultry to supply the home market and ship several thousand dollars worth to other markets. Start now by getting ready for spring. Clean out your henhouses, and if you have none, build one, while you are not busy, where it is high and dry. A well drained, elevated piece of ground, facing the east is the best location. Discard all of your common roosters and buy pure bred ones of the kind you prefer; also buy a few pure bred hens, set all of their eggs under common hens and in a year or two you will be the owner of a fine flock of chickens, all of one breed. It costs no more to feed good chickens than it does mongrels, and they are much more profitable. The Wyandotte and Rhode Island Reds are good all purpose fowls, and the single comb Brown Leghorns are regular egg machines, and "the hen that lays is the hen that pays." You can get a pen of either of these breeds in your own county as fine as they grow. You should buy them early so they will get settled down to laying early. Another way to start is by buying a few settings of eggs from pure bred fowls. Begin now to give your chickens more attention and you will be pleased with the result.

W. Z. Eubank, of Clark county, representing the Burt & Bragg lumber company, passed through Jackson Monday.

The Jett Trial.

The case of Curt Jett, charged with the murder of James Cockrill, was called at Cynthiana Monday by Special Judge H. G. Botts of Owenton. The greater part of the week was spent in selecting a jury. There was much difficulty in finding men who had not expressed an opinion as to Jett's guilt. It is said that Jett will declare his former confession false, and take the stand in his own behalf. It is said that he will state that he confessed in order to get the money from the sale of the confession to the newspapers. The jury was selected Wednesday morning and the examination of the witnesses was begun.

Mrs. W. W. Green was called to the bedside of her mother, Mrs. G. W. Crump, of near Millersburg, on Saturday of last week. Mrs. Crump died before Mrs. Green reached her. She was the wife of the late Rev. G. W. Crump.

Hay Ride.

On last Saturday morning a party of young folks went upon a hay ride to Mr. Matt Crawford's, three miles above town. Upon their arrival they found an elegant dinner awaiting them. During the afternoon they were entertained with an old-fashioned candy pulling. In spite of the inclement weather and deep mud upon the road a very enjoyable day was reported. The following persons composed the party: Mrs. W. R. Bradshaw, Mrs. C. J. Sewell, Misses Kate, May and Nancy Sewell, Jennie Bradshaw, Nancy and Eliza Spencer, Margaret Crawford, Maggie and Mollie Snowden, of Jackson; Miss Margaret Bush, of Winchester, and Miss Beech, of Michigan, and Sam Jett, L. Berea College

Winter Term Opens Jan. 2, 1906

Berea College is the old-time friend of the mountains. President Roosevelt says that Berea College has done more for the mountains than any other institution. Any one who visits Berea will see that this is so. And any one who visits the homes of those who have attended Berea will see that this is so.

When a young man or young lady leaves home to attend school it is the part of wisdom to go to the best school, even if it is a little further away. Those who go to Berea and hundreds are going—will make no mistake.

There is the best training for teachers—such as will enable them to get high-grade certificates, and also to teach high-grade schools! There is the best of true Academy and Collegiate work, with scientific apparatus and a library of 24,000 books. And there is instruction in the practical things as well. The advantages in music alone are worth a journey to Berea. No small item is the chance to get acquainted with so many of the best young people from all the counties of Kentucky and from other states.

The Secretary, Mr. Will C. Gamble, will be glad to send full information about the numerous departments of this great school.

CHAPTER III.

HALF an hour later the young man resumed his journey westward, passing down the farther slopes of the mountain. "Wonder why I wrote 'Calvo' as my address," he thought as his trusty horse carefully picked his way among the rocks and down the steep. "I hadn't thought of Calvo before as even a possible destination. I know nobody there. I know absolutely nothing about the town or the opportunities it may offer."

Then he began a more practical train of thought. "I've food enough now," he reflected, "to last me scantily for a few days. During that time I must make my way as far as I can toward the Ohio river at Pittsburgh or Wheeling or Parkersburg. When I reach the river I must have money enough to pay steamboat fare to Calvo. There is no money in these parts, but West Virginia is practically a northern state, and there are greenbacks there. I'll sell my remaining pistols there. A little later I'll sell my horse, my saddle and my bridle. The horse is a good one, and so is the saddle. Surely I ought to get enough for them to pay my way to Calvo."

Then came another and a questioning thought:

"And when I get to Calvo—what then? I've a good university education, but I doubt that there is a ready market for education in any bustling Missouri river town just now. I'm a graduate in law, but heaven knows I know very little about the profession aside from the broad underlying principles. Besides, I shall have no money with which to open an office, and who is going to employ a wandering and utterly destitute stranger to take charge of his legal business?"

For the moment discouragement dominated the young man's mind, but presently there came to him a reflection that gave new birth to his courage. "I'm six feet high," he thought, "and broad in proportion. I'm in perfect physical health. I have muscles that nothing has ever yet tired. Between the Wilderness and Appomattox I have had an extensive experience in shoveling earth and other hard work. I'm in exceedingly good training, a trifle underfed, perhaps, but at any rate I carry not one ounce of superfluous fat on my person. I am perfectly equipped for the hardest kind of physical work, and in a busy western town there is sure to be work enough of that kind for a strong and willing man to do. I can at the very least earn enough as a laborer to feed me better than I've been fed for four years of war."

Only enough, this prospect of work as a day laborer greatly cheered the young man. Instead of depressing his spirits it for the first time lifted from his soul that incubus of melancholy with which every Confederate soldier of his class was at first oppressed. Ever since Grant had refused in the Wilderness a year before to retire beyond the river after receiving Lee's tremendous blows Guilford Duncan and all Confederates of like intelligence had foreseen the end and had recognized its coming as inevitable. Nevertheless when it came in fact, when the Army of Northern Virginia surrendered and when the Confederacy ceased to be, the event was scarcely less shocking and depressing to their minds than if it had been an unforeseen and unexpected one.

The melancholy that instantly took possession of such minds amounted to scarcely less than insanity, and for a prolonged period it paralyzed energy and made worse the ruin that war had wrought in the south.

Fortunately Guilford Duncan, thrown at once and absolutely upon his own resources, thus quickly escaped from the overwhelming cloud.

And yet his case seemed worse than that of most of his comrades. They at least had homes of some sort to go to; he had none. There was for them, debt burdened as their plantations were, at least a hope that some way out might ultimately be found. "For him there was no such ground upon which he might rest even a hope."

Born of an old family, he had been bred and educated as one to whom abundance was to come by inheritance, a man destined from birth to become in time the master of a great patrimonial estate.

But that estate was honeycombed with hereditary debt, the result of generations of lavish living, wasteful methods of agriculture and overgenerous hospitality. About the time when war came there came also a crisis in the affairs of Guilford Duncan's father. Long before the war ended the elder man had surrendered everything he had in the world to his creditors. He had then enlisted in the army, though he was more than sixty years old. He had been killed in the trenches before Petersburg, leaving his only son, Guilford, not only without a patrimony and without a home, but also without any family connection closer than some distant half theoretical cousinship.

The young man's mother had gently passed from earth so long ago that he only dimly remembered the sweet nobility of her character, and he had never had either brother or sister.

He was thus absolutely alone in the world, and he was penniless, too, as he rode down the mountain steep. But the impulse of work had come to him, and he joyfully welcomed it as something vastly better and worthier of his strong young manhood than any brooding over misfortune could be or any leading of the old aristocratic, half idle planter life, if that had been possible.

In connection with this thought came another. He had recently read Owen Meredith's "Lucile," and as he journeyed he recalled the case there described of the French nobleman who for a time wasted his life and neglected his splendid opportunities in brooding over the downfall of the Bourbon dynasty and in an obstinate refusal to reconcile himself to the new order of things. Duncan remembered how, after awhile, when the new France became involved in the Crimean war, the Frenchman saw a clearer light; how he learned to feel that, under one regime or another, it was still France that he loved and to France that his best service was due.

"That," thought Guilford Duncan, "was a new birth of patriotism. Why should not a similar new birth come to those of us who have fought in the

With mighty effort vaulted over it.

Confederate army? After all, the restored Union will be the only representative left of those principles for which we have so manfully battled during the last four years—the principles of liberty and equal rights and local self government."

At that moment the young man's horse encountered a huge boulder that lay rolled down from the mountain side, completely blocking the path. With the spirit and the training that war service had given him the animal stopped not nor stayed. He approached the obstacle with a leap and then with mighty effort vaulted over it.

"Good for you, Bob!" cried the young man. "That's the way to meet obstacles, and that's the way I am resolved to meet them."

But the poor horse did not respond. He hobbled on three legs for a space. His master, dismounting, found that he had torn loose a tendon of one leg in the leap.

There was no choice but to drive a bullet into the poor beast's brain by way of putting him out of his agony. Thus was Guilford Duncan left upon the mountain side, more desolate and helpless than before, with no possessions in all the world except a pair of pistols, a saddle, a bridle, a side of bacon, a peck of cornmeal and a few ounces of salt.

The valley lay before him in all its barrenness. Beyond that lay hundreds of miles of Allegheny mountains and the region farther on.

All this expanse he must traverse on foot before arriving at that great river highway, by means of which he hoped to reach his destination, a thousand miles and more farther still to the west. But the new manhood had been born in Guilford Duncan's soul, and he was no more appalled by the difficult problem that he must face than he had been by the fire of the enemy when battle was on. "Hard work," he reflected, "is the daily duty of the soldier of peace just as hard fighting is that of the warrior."

Strapping his saddle and bridle on his back, he took his bacon and his salt bag in one hand and his bag of meal in the other. Thus heavily burdened he set out on foot down the mountain.

"At any rate my load will grow lighter," he reflected, "every time I eat, and I'll sell the saddle and bridle at the first opportunity. I'll make the Ohio river in spite of all."

THE TEXAS WONDER

Cures all Kidney, Bladder and Rheumatic troubles. Sold by all druggists or two months treatment by mail for $1.00. Dr. E. W. Hall, 2926 Olive street, St. Louis, Mo. Send for Kentucky testimonials. 22-1y

Phosphorescent Crabs. Phosphorescent crabs are found in the Californian waters in large quantities. These crabs, beautiful in their tints of red, blue and green, give out a peculiar light at night, the effect of which is startling, since it makes the animal literally stand forth in lines of gold.

Passed Examination Successfully. James Dunnahoo, New Britain, Conn., writes: "I tried several kidney remedies, and was treated by one of the best physicians for diabetes, but did not improve until I took Foley's Kidney Cure. After the second bottle I showed improvement, and five bottles cured me completely. I have since passed a rigid examination for life insurance." Foley's Kidney Cure cures back-ache and all forms of kidney and bladder trouble. Jackson Drug Co.

Manchurian Dogs. In Manchuria dogs are raised for their skins. A fairly prosperous Manchurian dog farmer will own a thousand or more dogs.

Orino Laxative Fruit Syrup. The new Laxative, stimulates, but does not irritate. It is the best Laxative. Guaranteed or your money back. Jackson Drug Co.

You Look Yellow

The trouble is, your liver's sick. One of its products, "bile," is overflowing into your blood. You can't digest your food, your appetite is poor, you suffer dreadfully from headache, stomach ache, dizziness, malaria, constipation, etc. What you need is not a dose of salts, cathartic water or pills—but a liver tonic.

Thedford's Black-Draught

This great medicine acts gently on the sick liver. It purifies the blood, renews the appetite, leads the bile, clears the brain and cures constipation. It is a true medicine for sick liver and kidneys, and regulates all the digestive functions. Try it. At all dealers in medicines in 25c packages.

Two Growlers.

"I don't like the way that dog of yours growls at me," remarked the young man who was calling. "Oh, that's nothing," replied the girl. "Just wait till you hear papa!" —Yonkers Statesman.

E. C. DeWitt & Co., of Chicago, at whose laboratory Kodol is prepared, assure us that this remarkable digestant and corrective for the stomach, conforms fully to all provisions of the National Pure Food and Drug Law. The Kodol laboratory is a very large one, but if all the sufferers from indigestion and stomach troubles could know the virtues of Kodol it would be impossible for the manufacturers to keep up with the demand. Kodol is sold here by Jackson Drug Co.

An Old Timer.

Howell—Do you see that old fellow down the tree? Powell—Yes. Howell—He was born in 1816. Powell—Is he? a case of ninety in the shade.—Woman's Home Companion.

An Alarming Situation frequently results from neglect of clogged bowels and torpid liver, until constipation becomes chronic. This condition is unknown to those who use Dr. King's New Life Pills; the best and gentlest regulators of Stomach and Bowels. Guaranteed by Jackson Drug Co., druggists. Price 25c.

The Usual Thing.

"When I saw Jigley yesterday he had just come home from a hunting trip." "Yes. Did he bring home a big bag?" "Well, no, but he brought home a big brag, as usual." —New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Death from Lockjaw never follows an injury dressed with Bucklen's Arnica Salve. Its antiseptic and healing properties prevent blood poisoning. Chas. Oswald, Merchant of Kennesawville, N. Y., writes: "I cured Seth Burch, of this place, of the ugliest sore on his neck I ever saw." Cures Cuts, Wounds, Burns and Sores. 25c at Jackson Drug Co., druggists.

Couldn't Break Him of Braking. Chuggerton—How's your new chauffeur? Carr—Had to fire him. He used to be a motorman. Chuggerton—Too reckless, eh? Carr—Reckless nothing! Why, I couldn't break him of the habit of slowing up at crossings!—Puck.

Deadly Serpent Bites, are as common in India as are stomach and liver disorders with us. For the latter however there is a sure remedy: Electric Bitters; the great restorative medicine of which S. A. Brown, of Ben nettville, S. C., says: "After restoring my wife to perfect health, after years of suffering with dyspepsia and a chronically torpid liver." Electric Bitters cure chills, fever, malaria, biliousness, lame back, kidney troubles and bladder disorders. Sold on guarantee by Jackson Drug Co., druggists. Price 50c.

An End.

A little girl went counting on To one—two hundred, say. "Is there no end to it?" she asked. "In quite a puzzled way, I told her no—she had begun. She might go on all day!" "There is an end to it—this end!" She cried with laughter, and And back she counted, back to one, And ended so her play. —Little Folks.

A man with a sprained ankle will use a crutch, rest the ankle and let it get well. A man or woman with an overworked stomach can't use a crutch, but the stomach must have rest just the same. It can be rested too without starvation. Kodol will do it. Kodol performs the digestive work of the tired stomach and corrects the digestive apparatus. Kodol fully conforms to the provisions of the National Pure Food and Drug Laws. Recommended and sold by Jackson Drug Co.

Danger in Taking Advice When you have a cough or cold do not ask some one what is good for it, as there is danger in taking some unknown preparation. Foley's Honey and Tar cures coughs, colds, and prevents pneumonia. The genuine is in a yellow package. Refuse substitutes. Jackson Drug Co.

Popularly Fitted. "Now," said Flannigan after the accident, "I'll have to send some men to break the news gradual to the poor man's wife." "Send Flannigan," suggested Flannigan. "He's just the man to break the news gradual; he stammers so." —Philadelphia Ledger.

Following the Flag. When our soldiers went to Cuba and the Philippines, health was the most important consideration. With J. Morgan, retired Commissary, U. S. A., of Rural Route 1, Concord, N. H., says: "I was two years in Cuba and two years in the Philippines, and being subject to colds, I took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which kept me in perfect health and now in New Hampshire, we find the best medicine in the world for coughs, colds, bronchial troubles, and all lung diseases." Guaranteed by Jackson Drug Co., druggists. Price 50c and $1.00. Total bottle free.

Looking Forward. "Have you any watches with water proof cases?" asked the young man. "No," replied the jeweler. "What is your object in wanting a water proof watch?" "Oh, I may have occasion to soak it occasionally," answered the young man. —Chicago News.

Public Speaker Interrupted Public speakers are frequently interrupted by people coughing. This would not happen if Foley's Honey and Tar were taken as it cures cough and colds and prevents pneumonia and consumption. The genuine contains no opiates and is in a yellow package. Jackson Drug Co.

An Extreme Case. "Poor Jenkins suffers terribly from hay fever." "Yes. He can't even pass a grass widow without sneezing." —Philadelphia Press.

It is noticeable a cold seldom comes on when the bowels are freely open. Neither can it stay if they are open. Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup opens the bowels and at the same time allays the inflammation of the mucous membranes. Contains honey and tar. Drives out the cold and stops the cough. Absolutely free from any opiates. Conforms to the National Pure Food and Drug Law. Pleasant to take. Sold by Jackson Drug Co.

A Transfer. "This idea of prohibiting corporations from contributing to campaign funds has changed things a great deal."

"Yes," answered Mr. Dustin Stax. "It takes a great deal of wear and tear off a man's cheek book and puts a corresponding amount of worry on his mind." —Washington Star.

Notice to Our Customers. We are pleased to announce the Foley's Honey and Tar for coughs, colds and lung troubles is not affected by the National Pure Food and Drug Law as it contains no opiates or other harmful drugs, and we recommend it as a safe remedy for children and adults. Jackson Drug Co.

A Crusher. George Hooley, ex-governor of Ohio, once related that the hardest setting down he ever experienced fell to him while campaigning in his own state. Tired and out of sorts, he arrived at a little town one evening and went to the only hotel in the place. The proprietor stood behind a little desk smoking a corn-cob pipe. After Mr. Hooley registered his host said, "Then you're going up to No. 10, down the far end of the hall." With the exception of the state's chief executive, "I am George Hooley of Ohio." The governor, however, calmly and meekly to him. "Well, what do you want me to do?" "The governor meekly to him."

Millions of bottles of Foley's Honey and Tar have been sold without a person being experienced any other than the most beneficial results from its use for coughs and lung troubles. This is the genuine Foley's Honey and Tar in the yellow package contains no opiates or other harmful drugs. Guard your health by refusing any but the genuine, Jackson Drug Co.

A LITTLE NONSENSE.

The Words Sounded All Right to Little Helen.

Helen went to a little party. She returned much earlier than expected, and her mother, fearing that something had gone wrong, questioned her. Helen was very fond of using words that she considered fine sounding. She replied:

"I stayed until they went out in the dining room, and then I saw that there were eleven little girls and only ten chairs. I thought I'd tell Ruthie's mother as polite as I could that there weren't chairs enough. So I stayed in the other room, and when she came and asked me why I didn't come out with the other little girls I just told her. I said that she perpetually didn't expect some one, and I didn't go out because there was no incentive. She didn't seem to understand the words, and I couldn't think of any cinammons, so I came home."

"Did you mean 'no vacancy'?" inquired her mother.

"Yes," answered Helen, "that was one of the words I couldn't think of."

"And the other word was 'evidently'?"

"Yes," replied Helen, dismissing the subject. "But I hope I'll never show my ignorance of the English language as plainly as Ruthie's mother did this afternoon." —Lippincott's Magazine.

Flourishing Texas. The state of Texas has a bonded debt of nearly $4,000,000, but less than $100,000 of the bonds is held outside the state. Nearly all the bonds that have been issued by the state are now deposited in the vaults of the state treasury to the credit of the various special funds, mainly the school fund, and in a few more years with good financial administration Texas will not owe a dollar to any one but herself. —San Antonio Express.

For chapped and cracked hands nothing is quite as good as an application of Dr. Witt's Witch Hazel Salve. Put it on before going to bed, use an old pair of gloves and see what a difference the morning will bring. Sold by Jackson Drug Co.

Winter Rhubarb.

Rhubarb is a vegetable easily raised in the cellar in winter. For forcing, or cellar growing, select and safely store away strong, big clumps of roots at least four years old and of early varieties. They may be planted at any time after they have had a short rest. If a succession is wanted a few are brought in at intervals of two weeks. On the bottom of a trench a foot deep place a four inch layer of fresh horse manure, followed by a two inch layer of loam. The roots are to be set in this trench, one foot apart, with the dirt carefully packed about them. When you have watered the plants and excluded all light the bed can be left to itself except for an occasional watering. The crop will be ready in from one to three months, the time varying with the temperature, the vitality of the plants, the season and other factors. It is a Suburban Life.

It is a mistake to use a violent cathartic to open the bowels. A gentle movement will accomplish the same results without causing distress or serious consequences later. Dr. Witt's Little Folks' Elixer are recommended. Sold by Jackson Drug Co.
